

Expand Your Horizons

With Annasoft Systems' broad application and technology expertise, training, and support programs, your product's potential is as limitless as your imagination.

Application Expertise of Industry Veterans

Annasoft Systems has an extensive application base from which you can draw. Chances are we've designed electronic devices for the market you're targeting and we have experienced engineers who can offer practical suggestions and write custom applications for you.

We have assisted in development of intelligent appliances for mobile computing, global positioning systems, enterprise computing, converged communications and computer telephony, data collection, test and measurement, transportation, thin client computing, industrial automation, medicine, consumer audio/video devices, internet appliances, point of sale, kiosk, and gaming.

Freedom of Choice

To meet the needs of our customers, Annasoft Systems distributes and supports a variety of complementary products from the best suppliers of enabling technologies. These include major semiconductor manufacturers of high-performance Windows CE-compatible processors and chips.

Relationships with third party vendors and our affiliation with Anna Technology companies allow us to offer technology solutions that span from the smallest intelligent devices to enterprise-level information systems.

Microsoft-Certified Training

Through Annabooks, the leading publisher of books and materials for the Microsoft-embedded market, Annasoft Systems presents the official Microsoft training program for Windows CE. Our in-depth Windows CE and Windows NT courses will give you the knowledge and confidence to start development immediately.

Taught by Microsoft-certified instructors at our dedicated training center in San Diego County, programs combine lecture and hands-on training to impart operating system features and deployment strategies. You will leave with the ability to create custom images, troubleshoot build issues, implement applications, and migrate applications to new platforms.

In Good Hands

Annasoft Systems is committed to your continued success. We stand behind our work with priority and post-design technical support, warranty services, troubleshooting, and telephone support through our technical help line.

Take the first step in transforming your ingenious idea into a compelling electronic product - call us or visit our web site. Let's brainstorm your product's potential.